66 staff members to receive service awards December 12

On Thursday, December 12, join your colleagues to recognize all 66 who will be honored for their service anniversaries of five, 10, 15, 20, 30, 35 and 40 years. The event will open at 3 pm with catered mocktails and hors’doeuvres, and the program will get underway at 3:30 pm.

Dress in an ugly holiday sweater or festive attire with nice jeans. The best dressed department/program will be announced at the party and receive a pizza luncheon on a future date.

Over $7,000 Raised on Giving Tuesday
On December 3, Menninger joined people and organizations around the world to celebrate Giving Tuesday, an international day of giving held annually on the Tuesday after Thanksgiving. In total, $7,270 was raised to support The Clinic’s research, training and outreach missions. The Office of Philanthropy is grateful to the employees who joined in donating to The Clinic on Giving Tuesday.

Expanded recycling effort launched
The Professionals Program’s patients and staff are piloting recycling of plastic bottles, thanks to suggestions from patients and from faculty and employees.

Giving Back Project starting soon
Next week on December 10, during the social work/ LPC/ LMFT discipline administration meeting, the Giving Back Project Committee will announce the community agency that will be the recipient of this year’s hospital-wide holiday contributions. The committee is working on final details before the agency is officially announced.

The collection campaign will start next week and run through January 1, 2020.

This year the committee is being co-chaired by Amanda Cherry, LCSW, Compass, and Leslie Wood, LCSW, ATP. Publicity chair is Candice Holloway, Pathfinder. Wood is overseeing the large collection boxes, which will be supplied to all units and departments on the main campus and outpatient locations. Volunteers in each location have agreed to decorate the boxes.

Staff may address any questions or concerns regarding the Giving Back Project collections to their unit or department volunteer, who will also be identified as the point person. Currently the following committee members have volunteered to serve as a point person:
- ATP – Leslie Wood
- Compass – Amanda Cherry
- CPAS – Janice Poplack
- Hope - Noemi Chenu
- Professionals – Elizabeth Castrellon
- Bellaire – Mallory Minberg
- Pathfinder - Candice Holloway
- Outpatient Services & Outpatient Assessments in Commons – Keisha Moore
- Menninger 360 – Matthew Estey

The social work and counselors’ discipline is looking forward to a robust season of giving to a very worthy cause. Please stay tuned for details.

This is one test for updating The Clinic’s green initiatives, which includes conservation of electricity with LED lighting and recycling of batteries used at work and home.
Welcome aboard

Clinical Career Ladder inspires LCSWs, LPCs & LMFTs

The newly established Clinical Career Ladder (CCL) for licensed clinical social workers (LCSWs), licensed professional counselors (LPCs) and licensed marriage and family therapists (LMFTs) promotes professional enrichment and growth by encouraging clinicians to take initiative in becoming more deeply involved in activities that contribute to the Menninger mission. Applications for the CCL specifically reflected individual clinicians’ work in the five areas promoted in Menninger values: excellence, teamwork, hope, integrity and caring.

In two separate application cycles, the Clinical Career Review Committee, was pleased to announce that eight LCSWs fulfilled the criteria to become members of the CCL for the next 12 months, in which they also receive a monthly stipend.

Three clinicians received the highest level, Clinician 4 or “Expert.” They are Dallas Adams, LCSW-S, Elizabeth Castrellon, LCSW-S, and Lynn Quackenbush, LCSW-S. Five LCSWs received Clinician 3 or “Advanced Clinician.” They are Arti Patel, LCSW-S, Jennifer Lancaster, LCSW, Kira Ruben, LCSW; Noemi Chenu, LCSW-S, and Sonia Roschelli, LCSW, LCDC.

The Clinical Review Committee (CLRC) meets once a quarter to review the applications. Currently serving on the CLRC are clinical directors from across the Menninger.
Recently, the Henderson-Wessendorff Foundation and the George and Mary Josephine Hamman Foundation awarded Menninger gifts totaling $45,000 to advance our understanding of mental illness and improve outcomes for patients at Menninger, as well as around the world.

The Henderson-Wessendorff Foundation made a renewed gift of $25,000 in support of The Clinic’s Hospital-wide Outcomes Project, which tracks patient participants’ symptoms, social functioning, moods and emotions, and overall mental health and vitality both during admission and after discharge. A task-based measure also was recently added to examine changes in attention, memory and processing speed.

To date, the program has collected information from approximately 4,000 adults and adolescents. Through the support of donors, such as The Henderson-Wessendorff Foundation, we are improving our understanding of patient trajectories and developing more targeted, patient-specific mental health treatments.

A gift of $20,000 from the George and Mary Josephine Hamman Foundation will support The Clinic’s aim to develop an inpatient protocol for treating insomnia with cognitive behavioral therapy (CBTI). Sleep disorders and their effect on mental health – particularly suicidal ideation – has become an emerging target for researchers.

With support from the Hamman Foundation and other donors, Director of Research Operations Michelle Patriquin, PhD, is collaborating with researchers at Stanford University and Duke University Medical Center to develop and test the CBTI inpatient protocol (CBTI-IP), which is based on an existing outpatient intervention. The creation of a treatment manual will allow CBTI-IP to not only be implemented at Menninger, but also at hospitals across the country.

Nurse training program receives renewed support

This month, almost 15 years ago to the date, the Stedman West Foundation made a pivotal gift to support the training of psychiatric nurses at Menninger. Every year since, the foundation has helped to nurture and grow nurses at The Clinic, last year establishing the Betty Ann Stedman Psychiatric Nurse Training Program to further expand nurse education opportunities. On the anniversary of the Stedman West Foundation’s inaugural gift, The Office of Philanthropy is pleased to announce the foundation’s decision to continue their legacy of support with a renewed gift to the nurse training program.

The Betty Ann Stedman Psychiatric Nurse Training Program comprises three key elements:

1. The Betty Ann Stedman Psychiatric Nurse Residency provides six months of paid training and mentorship to four of the nation’s most promising nurse graduates.

2. The Stedman West Nurse Fellowship provides educational assistance to Menninger employees seeking a nursing degree and future career in psychiatric nursing.

3. Professional development funding assists nurses at Menninger in accessing career-enhancing opportunities, like attending and presenting at conferences and completing continuing education courses.

Through its support, the Stedman West Foundation is strengthening the practice of psychiatric nursing at all levels at Menninger, from nurses with decades of experience to individuals just beginning their careers. With a strong foundation of mentorship and continued skill-building, Menninger nurses are among the best in their field and often are recognized by grateful patients on discharge. We appreciate the generosity of the Stedman West Foundation, which helps to ensure that our patients and their families are cared for by the most capable hands.

system: Angela Koreth, MS, LPC-S, program director at the Bellaire Clinic; Mychal Riley, LCSW, LCDC-I, program manager at Pathfinder; Vaughan Gilmore, LCSW-S, LCDC, director of Addiction Services; Robyn Dotson-Martin, LPC-S, Outpatient Services and Outpatient Assessments; Janice Poplack, LCSW-S, ACSW, committee chair and director of social work.

The next CCL application deadline is January 10, 2020.

The recipients of the CCL membership stated the following when asked what the CCL meant to them:

- Arti Patel, ATP, Advanced Clinician – “Appreciated, thrilled for the Social Work Discipline ... It encourages us all to play an active role ... The Clinical Career Ladder brings light to the dynamic roles that we play in our everyday work at Menninger.”

- Dallas Adams, CPAS, Expert – “Being part of the Clinical Ladder initiative means I feel recognized for my experience and expertise. It encourages me to demonstrate my skills on a daily basis.”

- Elizabeth Castrellon, Professionals Program, Expert – “I find it motivating to have the opportunity to be a leader in my discipline.”

- Jennifer Lancaster, ATP, Advanced Clinician – “Part of what makes Menninger special is the interdisciplinary team approach to diagnostic assessment and treatment, and social workers play a vital role ... in that process ... The Clinical Career Ladder is a recognition of our social workers’ diverse skill sets and contributions to the hospital’s vision and mission.”

- Kira Ruben, Compass, Advanced Clinician – “The Clinical Ladder motivates me to remain engaged in the passion of my work. It encourages me to continue to expand my own abilities while also exploring all that Menninger has to offer.”

- Noemi Chenu, Hope, Advanced Clinician – “I’m thrilled that the Career Ladder has been put in place to recognize and reward the work that we do.”

- Sonia Roschelli, Compass/ Addiction Services, Advanced Clinician – “It is an honor to be on the Clinical Career Ladder. Personal and professional development and doing my best are important values to me, and it is so meaningful to me that Menninger and my colleagues value and see that in me. I am grateful to be a part of such a wonderful group of clinicians on the Clinical Career Ladder.”

Bellaire clinicians organize charity luncheon
To start the holiday season, each Bellaire outpatient clinicians shared about a charitable cause or a group that was near and dear to them. Each member donated $10; Mallory Minberg's Houston Food Bank was gifted $50 and Barbi Topek’s Juvenile Diabetes was gifted $30 from Team Bellaire. Below is a list of causes that each member shared about.

1. Houston Food Bank – Mallory Minberg
2. Juvenile Diabetes – Barbi Topek
3. Ronald McDonald House – Paola Pedrido; Lupus Organization of America – Virginia Miller
4. Gigi’s Playhouse – Angela Koreth; Prevent Child Abuse America – Maliha Khan
5. The Innocence Project – Megan Keyser; The “Karate” Kickstart Kids – John O’Neill

John O’Neill and Virginia Miller are pictured taking part in Charity Day with their Bellaire clinic colleagues.

Dr. Peter Fonagy leading training on incorporating MBT in groups
Menninger staff and clinicians from the community are invited to attend the continuing education activity February 7 on Mentalization-based Approach to Group Psychotherapy.

Check with your manager to arrange coverage before registering for the event.

Sign up online. The activity is planned for Noon to 2 pm in our three classrooms. Additional information is available on The Link.

New training set for Menninger vehicle drivers
A drivers’ safety course on the Menninger Learning Center will be required for drivers of Menninger vehicles in the near future. The training will be reflected in our policies as well as a safeguard for patients and staff.
Doing whatever it takes

Strong therapeutic relationship built by Menninger 360 team pays off for client

Editor’s note: This is new periodic feature of the Update with the purpose of illustrating the work that our teams or individual staff members do to care for those in our care.

Story shared by Matt Estey, LCSW

Program director of Menninger 360

We had a client that had been decompensating for about six weeks. We had numerous team meetings with the client, and her father flew in for the last meeting in mid-September. It became increasingly clear that she needed primary eating disorder treatment in a residential setting as she continued to lose weight while also experiencing an increase in psychosis and increased substance use during this time.

The client was quite ambivalent about engaging in treatment, and team members almost had to stakeout her apartment at times to ensure that we met up with her. When we finally got her to agree to go to a program in Utah, we needed her to complete a physical, EKG and various labs prior to her admittance. The team had to work together to get both her buy-in on a daily basis and spent nearly 30 hours with her the last four days prior to going to Utah. We also had a staff member fly with her there and back on a Sunday because we were far from certain whether she would actually board the plane once she made it to the airport.

It was definitely an example of multiple team members needing to leverage their relationship with this client and go above and beyond by working into the evenings, as well as Saturdays and Sundays to ensure she got the treatment that she needed.

The team member who flew with her to Utah was supposed to attend a Wu-Tang Clan concert with a young adult client that Sunday evening so a Menninger 360 colleague came in for four hours to attend the concert with the client and help support him in having a sober recovery experience.

Borderline personality disorder group gives back to Menninger

An organization in New York called Emotions Matter met recently to plan a community service project to help others who are affected by borderline personality disorder. The consumers made inspirational, recovery-focused care packages for individuals in treatment programs.

Menninger Business Development Rep Meg Horne, MSN, recently met Paula T. from Emotions Matter, while on a marketing trip to New York. Horne connected Emotions Matter with nurses at Menninger. The kits made by Emotions Matter, pictured at left, will be arriving soon at Menninger for nursing staff to distribute to individuals with BPD. Included are handmade cards with inspirational messages, distress tolerance favorites like Playdoh, stress balls, journals and T-shirts from the 2019 Emotions Matter Walk.

“This is our small way of bringing hope to others who may be struggling or doubting their ability to manage BPD symptoms this holiday season,” explained Paula. “Giving back is one of the ways our group offers distractions from painful emotions. We offer volunteers opportunities to contribute to someone else’s recovery because we know it not only helps others know someone understands BPD.”

The project is based on research and the success of a project in Missouri, showing inspirational cards are effective in the recovery of persons following hospitalization.
Drumba “exposure”

Staff members and nursing students give the rhythmic aerobic exercise called Drumba a try during one of the recent sessions sponsored by Recreation Therapy and Patient Care Services as part of the Healthy Nurse Healthy Nation initiative. The final 15-minute opportunity to try Drumba is Tuesday at 12:15 pm and 3:30 pm in the Exercise Studio of the Wellness Center.

O, Tannenbaum! It’s tree-trimming & wreath time

Menninger is renewing two past traditions this season.

First, the Wellness Committee invites co-workers to trim the tree by the fireplace Friday, December 6, 9:30-11 am, while enjoying cookies and hot cider. The tree-trimming tradition started when Menninger operated on Gessner. The results were beautiful!

Secondly, there’s a new twist on wreaths, thanks to an energetic team of staff who have started an auction that will make spending the year-end holidays in the hospital brighter for our patients staying with us.

For many years psychiatrist Dean Collins, MD, who could easily pass for Old Saint Nick himself by putting on a white beard, would don a Santa Claus suit, carry jingle bells and hang the fresh wreaths on all the units in Topeka, Kansas.

How will units spend our Wreath Auction proceeds?

- “We would use the funds for each patient to have a gift under the tree on December 25. We also purchase gingerbread house kits. Patients really do enjoy the activity.” – Cheryl Buteaux, Hope
- “We would purchase gifts for patients.” – Phil Ashford, CPAS
- “We provide our patients with a gift bag on the morning of December 25. We also purchase gingerbread house kits for the patients and have a gingerbread house decorating contest on the unit.” – Mark White, Compass

Going, going ...

The bidding on wreaths will conclude promptly at 1 pm December 12.
